Veterans of Foreign Wars Organize Post and Elect

The new post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars now being organized in town met in the court room in the town hall Monday evening and held election of officers with the following results: Commander, James Dugan; senior vice commander, Carl N. Lindsay; junior vice commander, Peter D. Quinn; adjutant, John M. Erving; quartermaster, Harold S. Cates; advocate, George A. Abbott; officer of the day, William J. Snyder; trustee for eighteen months, John M. Erving; trustee for one year, Clarence B. Eastwood; and trustee for six months, Earl D. Batcheller.

The post for the present at least will be known as Andover post, 2128, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The name of the post may later be changed to that of some departed "buddy" killed in action while fighting for his country.

The next meeting of the post will be held Monday evening, May 25, at the same place at 7.30. The installation of officers and mustering in will be held Sunday, June 7, in the afternoon according to tentative plans. This will be open to the general public. The charter will remain open for some time yet.

Harvard Club of Andover to Hold Annual Dinner

The annual dinner of the Harvard club of Andover will take place next Tuesday at 6.30 p. m. at the Andover Country club. In the absence of the president, Alexander H. Wardsworth, the vice president, John S. Barrs will preside. The speakers will be Edward L. Casey, head football coach at Harvard, and Henry W. Clark of the Harvard Athletic association.

Any further applications for the club's scholarship, available for Andover or North Andover boys during the freshman year at Harvard, should be made at once to the secretary, Thaxter Eaton.

To Enter Annapolis

Allan C. Edmonds, who has been stationed at the Naval operating base, Hampton Roads, Virginia, for the past year, has been notified that he has passed his examinations for entrance into the naval academy at Annapolis.

He joined the navy in March, 1930, went through the preliminary training at Newport, R. I., for two months, had his first leave of twelve days a year ago and was then sent to Hampton Roads, Virginia, where he entered the electrical school. Last fall, with a number of other young men in the school, he entered the naval academy preparatory class, and took the six months' course which ended with the examination in April of this year. He then came home for a thirty-day leave which would have expired on May 26. He was granted an extended leave until June 9 when informed of the good news that he had passed his examinations.

Allan is a graduate of Punchard high school, Class of 1929, which has two other boys in Uncle Sam's service, John Armistead at West Point and James Craik in the U. S. Coast Guard at New London, Conn.

South Parish to Hold Important Meeting

The men of the South Parish are urged to be present at the adjourned meeting to be held Monday evening, May 25, at 7.30 o'clock in the south church vestry.

A meeting was called on May 11 to hear the report of the special committee relative to the installation of a heating plant and to appropriate the necessary additional funds for its installation, but the attendance was not sufficient to take action on so important a question.

It is hoped that there will be a representative attendance on Monday evening.

Addison Gallery of American Art Dedicated

The new Addison Gallery of American Art was dedicated on last Saturday morning. The donor, the family of Mrs. Keturah Addison Cobb for whom the building is named, and officials of the school were present. Charles A. Platt, acting for the builders and architects presented the keys to Dr. Stearns who accepted them for Phillips academy. Dr. Stearns made a brief address in which he stressed the important part the new gallery would play in the life of the school. A tribute to Mrs. Cobb was read by the donor, after which the keys were handed to her brother, Murray Cobb of Paris, France, who opened the door to the new building.

On Sunday an informal reception was held in the Gallery for members of the school and guests from out of town. Many people from this vicinity visited the gallery on Monday, the opening day. The Addison Gallery will be open to the public daily from 9 till 5; Sunday, 2 till 4.30. It will remain open all summer, on somewhat shorter hours.

To Hold Annual Poppy Day

Plans have been made for the annual Poppy Day by the Andover post 8 American Legion Saturday, May 23, is the date set. The following committee will be in charge: Commander Arthur L. Coleman, Joseph A. McCarthy, James Sparks and Arthur Jewett.

Boys' Night will be observed at the meeting Tuesday evening, May 26. The Boy Scouts will be guests.

Through Way Rule to Be Enforced

The local police wish to call especial attention of the townspeople and motorists of Greater Lawrence to the fact that Turnpike street from Hillside road to Railroad avenue is a through way. This does not mean that a vehicle operator may slow down to almost a stop before entering or crossing but a full stop must be made. Many flagrant violations of this rule have been noticed, many of them being made by local motorists. The police have been lenient thus far because the regulation is new but will shortly commence issuing summonses to those who violate the stop rule. Many have apparently simply forgotten or failed to notice the stop signs.

It is noted that when a line of machines approaches the through way and the first operator stops, the ones following assume that it is unnecessary for them to stop. The complete cooperation of all motorists is requested.

ABBOT FIELD DAY

Scores in Track, Field Events and Riding Give Griffins Five-Point Advantage—Athletic A's Awarded

Field day at Abbot Academy was a most successful affair on Wednesday, May 20. The sunny day with its high temperature, preceded by lowering skies and immediately followed by rain, was a most fortunate arrangement of weather. Many guests were present during the day, and attended the tea at which Miss Bailey was hostess in the late afternoon. The day was a victory for the Griffins, who won with a score of 32 1-2 to 27 1-2. Orange and green balloons were sold on the grounds, and added a gay note of color which was repeated in the afternoon by the orange or green linen coats of the riders. The orange and white or green and white habits looked effective against the black or brown horses from Lyle Phillips's stables.

For the riding events, drill, form and games, the judges were Mrs. Frank Paige and Mrs. Francis Evans of Andover, and Harry Goode of West Medford. The scores of tennis, doubles and singles, of volley ball and baseball, evened the records of both clubs, and the minor sports group ended in a tie. The Gargoyles were ahead in the Free-for-all events, and in the tug of war but the scores of the Griffins in track and field events and in riding gave them the final victory. The day was under the management of Miss Mary Carpenter, director, and Mary Smead, '31, president of the Abbot Athletic Association.

"Apple Blossom Time" a three-act play, by Eugene G. Hafer, one of the best ever given by the Girls' Friendly society, afforded an evening's entertainment to the large audience assembled in Christ church parish house on Tuesday evening.

During the afternoon tea was served and a sale of fancy articles, candy and food was held which extended into evening.

The entire action of the play took place in the cheerful livingroom of the Forrests, presided over by the capable Polly Biddle, sharp-tongued but warm-hearted. Here come and go the young people of the neighborhood, the friendly Nancy Prescott, Loretta Harris of the clinging vine type, the eccentric Malvina Kirtz who is crazy for a beau, and Annabel Spriggins, an old maid, also keen after a man. Then there are out-of-town visitors, Bob Matthews, well-bred but possessed of a violent temper, and his friend Charlie Lawrence, always in high good humor. Two young Irishmen, the greatest of pals until they are rivals for the hand of Malvina lend an extra touch of comedy. Then there is Cal Picken, the local constable, in a constant state of gloom because of Polly's constant rebuffs. The haughty Mrs. Forrest completes the cast with the exception and an important one—of the lively Betty Ann Stewart, abounding in vitality, to some a little spit-fire, but at bottom, tender and warm-hearted.

She enters like a whirlwind having in her mad career, while driving the flivver, knocked down one of the family visitors, Bob Matthews. However he is not traveling under that name as he is sought by the sheriff for borrowing a car which did not belong to him, and has assumed the pseudonym of Donald Clark. As it happens, the real Donald Clark is the guardian of the irrepressible Betty Ann and the struggle between the exasperated young man attempting to assert his authority and the wilful Betty tormenting her newly-found "daddy" is unflagging. The village belle works her wiles on Bob in vain and it all ends by Bob and Betty making a truce which is to last a lifetime. To find she is the heiress to Tad Forrest's thousands adds the finishing touch.

The handsome Charlie succumbs to the charms of Nancy Prescott and Spud plans a honeymoon to Niagara with Malvina in which Mickey also hopes to have some part. The young people entered into their parts with spirit and the audience responded with applause and laughter especially provoked by the trials of Cal and the two young Irishmen Spud and Mickey.

The play was coached by Mrs. Walter Howe and Mrs. John M. Birdsall.

Bob Matthews	Helen Smith
Charlie Lawrence	Emma Stevens
Spud McLosky	Bertha Hilton
Mickey Maquire	Bertha Cuthill

CHAPTER XII

In view of the gravity of the tonnage situation, it was highly important that it be brought forcibly to the attention of the allies. Apropos the approaching inter-allied conference on shipping, I cabled Washington August 23, 1917, in part as follows: "... The British and, especially, the French have reached absolute limit of man power and any augmentation their military force cannot be expected. Imperative hasten our organization and training so that we will have the troops contemplated your project in Europe for active service by May or June.

"Military activities of allies on land should be strongly reinforced by combined navies and destruction U-boats bases accomplished if possible. High British army officers confidentially condemn waiting policy British admiralty. ... In view of gravity of shipping question recommend our government insist upon aggressive policy by combined British and American navies. ... Our position in this war very strong. ... Allies now fully recognize dependence upon our co-operation and we need not hesitate demand both aggressive naval policy and full share commercial shipping. Recommend American representative shipping conference be instructed accordingly."

Numbers of officers of all armies felt very strongly that to check the losses by submarines the two navies should take some risk and attempt to destroy the bases from which these boats operated. It is not known whether any steps were ever taken to convey this suggestion to the combined navies.

U. S. Advised on Powder Needs. Meanwhile, a study by a joint French and American commission of the question of production of powders and explosives in France showed that the greater part of the raw materials must be imported and that, due to the shipping situation, France in December would produce only about half of the current output. It was apparent, therefore, that to avoid calamity the United States must not only furnish powder and explosives for all of its own forces, but must supply about half the French requirements, and the War department was so advised.

By this arrangement a large saving of tonnage would be effected, as the weight of raw materials was ten to twenty times that of the finished product. As nitrates for the manufacture of powder and explosives had to be imported from Chili, the hazard to shipping would be reduced by avoiding the long haul to France. Millions of dollars were expended in the construction of plants at home in an attempt to produce nitrates, but none had been turned out before the end of the war.

Dawes Made Supply Chief.

In view of the uncertainty of obtaining more than a limited amount of ocean tonnage it was natural that we should procure abroad as large a proportion of supplies as possible, and our supply department began at once to make inquiries to meet the demands for construction material, subsistence stores and engineering equipment. Many sources of general supply had been developed by the French and we soon found ourselves not only in competition with them and the British but our different departments also began to bid against each other.

To my mind the solution seemed to be merely a matter of co-ordination. Therefore, I established a purchasing board to consist of one or more representatives of each service making purchases of any sort, including the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A.

Lieut. Col. Charles G. Dawes, Seventeenth engineers, well known as a man of large business experience, was appointed as the head of this board, the members of which were to meet together and make known their respective needs and then agree among themselves as to where and by which department such purchase was to be made, thus mutually assisting instead of competing with each other. Under the arrangement co-operation with the French was established and the agency became increasingly effective in handling our procurement activities.

Couldn't Depend on French R. R.'s. The use of railways for the movement of troops and supplies had never before attained any such proportions as in the World War and there was no service except sea transportation upon which we placed greater dependence for our success.

It was apparent that we could not depend on the French without great risk of failure at a critical moment and it was evident that if we expected the maximum efficiency in this service we must provide our own personnel as well as additional locomotives and cars, all to be as far as practicable under American management.

With this plan in view commendable progress had been made toward both procurement and organization by Colonel Taylor, and complete estimates for rolling stock and construction at ports, terminals and yards, including an accurate survey of building and equipment requirements, had been made under his direction by Maj. W. J. Wilgus, formerly vice president of the New York Central, afterward a colonel, who had been a member of the Parsons board. These estimates without change served as a permanent guide for railway construction plans and material.

Creation of Transportation Corps.

As co-ordinate with the procurement and maintenance of material and equipment we were confronted with the vital question of organization for operation and management, but we had no officers in the regular service of sufficient experience to railway management to insure success. Therefore the evident course to pursue, to which the precedent of both British and French pointed the way, was to create a transportation corps immediately under the direction of some man of outstanding reputation in the railroad world. In accordance with the principle of obtaining the most competent men for important positions the following cable was sent July 29:

"Have made thorough study of railroad situation and am convinced that operation of railroads must be under man with large experience in managing railroad, at home. Successful handling our railroad lines so important that ablest men in country should be selected. After almost disastrous results with inexperienced military men running railroads British selected ablest man could find to have charge transportation.

"Question here mainly one of physical operation and management in intimate relation with French, who retain general control, which is necessary to handle ordinary commercial traffic. Question of railroad transportation of course involves equipment, maintenance and new construction at front as many advances, and should be practically independent department, although nominally under engineers. Railroad chosen should be sent here without delay, together with three or four able assistants of his own selection. Later on it is believed these men should be given appropriate military rank."

In reply, the War department recommended W. W. Atterbury, then general manager and now president of the Pennsylvania railroad, for the place, and I immediately requested that he be sent to France.

CHAPTER XIII

The most important question that confronted us in the preparation of our forces of citizen soldiers for efficient service was training. Except for the Spanish-American war nearly twenty years before, actual combat experience of the regular army had been limited to the independent action of minor commands in the Philippines and to two expeditions into Mexico, each with forces smaller than a modern American division.

The World War involved the handling of masses where even a division was relatively a small unit. It was one thing to call 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 men to the colors, and quite another thing to transform them into an organized, instructed army capable of meeting and holding its own in battle against the best trained force in Europe with three years' actual war experience to its credit.

A general scheme of schools for the A. E. F. was prepared by the operations and training section, but in order that this instruction should be as complete and uniform as possible and at the same time be co-ordinated with other activities, I declared that training should be handled by officers who could devote their entire time to it. An additional section of the headquarters staff therefore was established, called the training section, to function under my personal direction. As chief of this section Col. Paul B. Malone was chosen, with Col. H. B. Fiske as his assistant.

Appeal in British Methods.

The British methods of teaching trench warfare appealed to me very strongly. They taught their men to be aggressive and undertook to perfect them in hand-to-hand fighting with bayonet, grenade and dagger. A certain amount of this kind of training was necessary to stimulate the morale of troops by giving them confidence in their own personal prowess.

Through the kindness of Sir Douglas Haig we were fortunate early in our experience to have assigned to us Lieut. Gen. R. H. K. Butler and other officers of the British army to assist in this individual training.

Later on several French and British officers also came to lecture at a number of our schools.

Differ on War Principles. We found difficulty, however, in using these allied instructors in that the French and, to a large extent, the British had practically settled down to the conviction that developments since 1914 had changed the principles of warfare. Both held that new conditions imposed by trench fighting had rendered previous conceptions of training more or less obsolete and that preparation for open warfare no longer was necessary. French publications and manuals were generally in accord with this theory.

If the French doctrine had prevailed our instruction would have been limited to a brief period of training for trench fighting. A new army brought up entirely on such principles would have been seriously handicapped without the protection of the trenches. It would probably have lacked the aggressiveness to break through the enemy's lines and the knowledge of how to carry on thereafter.

It was evident that the victory could not be won by the costly process of attrition, but that we should have to drive the enemy out into the open and engage him in a war of movement. Instruction in open warfare was based upon individual and group initiative, resourcefulness and tactical judgment, which were of equal advantage in trench warfare.

Therefore, we took decided issue with the allies, and, without neglecting thorough preparations for trench warfare, undertook to train mainly for open warfare, with the object from the start of vigorously forcing the offensive.

Rifle Practice Urged.

Intimately connected with the question of training for open warfare was the matter of rifle practice. The earliest of my cablegrams on this subject was in August, in which it was urged that thorough instruction in rifle practice should be carried on at home because of the difficulty of giving it in France.

"Study here shows value and desirability of retaining our existing small arms target practice course. In view of great difficulty in securing range in France due to density of the population and cultivation, recommend as fast as practicable the complete course be given in the United States before troops embark. Special emphasis should be placed on rapid fire."

My view was that the rifle and bayonet still remained the essential weapons of infantry, and my cable stressing the fact that the basic principles of warfare had not changed, were sent in an endeavor to influence the courses of training at home. Unfortunately, however, no fixed policy of instruction in the various arms, under a single authority, ever was carried out there.

Insenible to advice, the inclination was to accept the views of French specialists and limit training to the narrow field of trench warfare. Therefore, in large measure, the fundamentals so thoroughly taught at West Point for a century were more or less neglected.

The responsibility for the failure of the War department to take positive action on my recommendations in such matters must fall upon the military head of the department, which was the general staff.

Military Police Provided.

The maintenance of good order among our troops under the peculiar conditions of service in France was most important, and for this purpose a military police was essential. Such a force, under the control of provost marshal general, corresponded to the police department in a well-organized city, except that its jurisdiction included only those in the military service. The British, whose situation was similar to our own, gave us helpful information regarding their system, which, with a slight modification, was adopted for our armies.

In our previous wars, the provost guard, so called, usually consisted of troops of the line detailed for the purpose, but without any special training for such duty.

Col. Hanson Ely was selected to organize the police corps and made a good beginning in laying the foundation, but, at his own request, he was shortly relieved and sent to regimental duty. His successor, Col. W. H. Alhite, became provost marshal general until the following July, when he was relieved by Col. J. C. Groome.

Brig. Gen. H. H. Bandholtz, on account of his special fitness for such work from his experience as chief of constabulary in the Philippine islands, became the permanent head of the corps in September, 1918.

Due credit must be given to each of these officers, but particularly to Bandholtz, for the smart appearance and the high efficiency of this force.

The military police were indispensable in directing and handling traffic during combat activities, in preventing straggling and in maintaining order among scattered groups of our armies both before and after the armistice.

The organization November 1, 1918, numbered 463 officers and 15,912 men, spread over the whole of France.

THEATRES

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

With Gilda Gray, in person, on the stage, and "Up Pops The Devil" with an excellent cast, on the screen, it is an unusual double attraction which is offered at the Metropolitan beginning Thursday.

Gilda Gray, greatest exponent of "Shakin' the Blues" comes as headliner in the stage revue of that name, supported by Harrison and Elmo, black face comedians, the Three Blue Blazes, "hoofers" and the Bobby Sanford Girls. Miss Gray, whose fame is such as to need little comment, will present several of her latest dance numbers, and will also offer two vocal selections.

"Up Pops The Devil", adapted from the stage success of the same name, presents a cast which includes Skeets Gallagher, Stuart Erwin, Carole Lombard, Lilyan Tashman, Norman Foster and others. Audiences will laugh long and loud at the genuine comedy situations and will wipe a tear or two from the eye at some of the dramatic moments of this picture. The story is that of a young couple who decide to marry at the end of a companionable affair, with the agreement that if at the end of another year either decided to terminate the marriage the other will consent to divorce. All goes well for a time and then the husband loses his job and is unable to sell his stories. The wife works and "keeps" the husband. The dialogue is well written and put over in excellent style.

The Metropolitan Symphony Orchestra as an overture "Medley Moderne," while Arthur Martel at the organ presents, "Evolution of the Dance."

Famous Casa Loma Band at Roseland-on-the-Merrimack Tonight

Jean Goldkette's nationally famous Casa Loma orchestra of fourteen men from Detroit will play its third triumphant engagement of the season at Roseland-on-the-Merrimack this evening. Music critics generally are practically unanimous in rating the Casa Loma as the outstanding dance band in America today. With them we will be heard for the first time in New England the sensational singer from Nashville, Tennessee, Kenny Sargent, featured for many seasons with the Blue Steele and Francis Craig orchestras and at the Andrew Jackson hotel in Nashville. Sargent made the sensational record of "Girl of My Dreams", of which more than two million records were sold, and is a great favorite in the South, where he is a headline radio broadcasting artist over Station WSM of Nashville. He will lead Casa Loma's marvellous singing ensemble at Roseland tonight.

Roland Russell and his Rollicking Ramblers, who have attracted the record-breaking number of 4800 persons to Roseland on two successive Saturdays this season, will present the musical program for check dancing to morrow evening and again next Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Next Friday evening, the eve of Memorial Day, Mickey Alpert and his sensational twelve-man orchestra of Boston will be featured at Roseland. As an added attraction extraordinary, Mildred Harris (in private life Mrs. Charles Chaplin) will be featured in a song program. Miss Harris, in addition to being a gorgeous beauty, is a marvellous singer and one of the greatest RKO vaudeville and radio artists in the world. Because of the holiday eve, dancing that night will continue until one o'clock in the morning. And all for the customary admission fee.

Why see relatives and old-time friends mainly at funerals? Why not be with them when joy instead of sorrow, pleasure rather than pain, is the occasion for meeting? ## THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Looking Back Twenty-five Years

Arthur Cummings U. S. N., of the battleship Indiana is spending several days in town. High street is being macadamized by Superintendent of Streets, Joseph T. Lovejoy.

The work on the Old South steeple has been completed and the return of the clock after an absence of three weeks is a very welcome sight and sound.

Mrs. William H. Higgins and Miss E. F. Levi of Newton Highlands won the foursome medal play at the golf handicap meet at the Woodland Golf Club links at Auburndale, on Monday.

William Mildrum, who has been a resident of this town for many years and has been in the employ of Smith & Dove for the past thirty-six years, has moved from town to Wakefield where he has bought a small farm.

The Men's club at Christ church closed a very successful season last evening in the Parish house. After the regular business, an excellent concert was furnished by Charles E. P. Clarke with his talking machine.

Miss Annie Gillen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gillen was severely bitten on Wednesday afternoon by a large collie dog which attacked her on the street. Miss Gillen's right arm received the brunt of the attack, and the sleeve of her dress was torn to shreds.

Last Sunday evening a meeting was held in the Abbott district schoolhouse for the purpose of forming a Christian Endeavor society. The following officers were chosen: President, Mrs. E. G. Hardy; vice president, Miss Louise Bailey; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Hudson Wilcox; sunshine committee, Miss Hattie Maddox; social committee, Mrs. Daniel Fitzpatrick; music committee, Miss Mabel Bailey.

The Andover Association of Ministers met on Tuesday in the South church. Rev. George F. Kingott of Lowell was moderator for the day. The morning session was spent in examination of candidates for licensure. The following, all of Andover Seminary, passed examination satisfactorily: Bruce W. Brotherton, Ellery C. Clapp, Hanson L. Packard, Arthur A. McBride, Clifford L. Miller. At one o'clock the association and the successful candidates sat down to lunch for the Rich Rhodes was caterer. The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the actual condition of Christian Endeavor societies, led by Rev. John A. McKnight of Dracut.

Lincoln lodge, No. 78, A. O. U. W., entertained its lady friends at Workman hall last Friday evening. Musical selections were rendered by the Raymond Male Quartet, Louis A. Dane, one of the original members of the organization eighteen years ago, taking the place of the first tenor, Thomas Hay, who was unable to sing on account of illness. The trio, "A Little Farm," sung by Messrs. Scott, Christie and Coutts, was especially well rendered and the audience vigorously demanded an encore. The readings by Miss Elsie Evers were cleverly rendered and she was heartily applauded and encored. Newton's orchestra furnished music for dancing.

COMMUNICATION

My Brief Visit to the New "Franciscan Seminary"

Editor of the Townsman:
Until last Saturday I did not believe so beautiful a landscape existed in our midst as the site chosen for the new Catholic Seminary on Hood's Farm. The hill overlooks a scene of surpassing beauty. At the base of the hill, fringed on either side by rich foliage, flows the sinuous Merrimack, combining in its never failing flow both beauty and power; farther away clean up to the distant skyline a stretch undulating fields that progressively rise until they form a circle of mountain wall enclosing one vast amphitheater of loveliness.

From the grounds of this quiet retreat, away from their noise of whirling machinery and modern traffic, are seen the tall factory chimneys of Lowell and Lawrence marking a contrast that smites the imagination of the visitor: religion and business; Are their ideals the same, or does the contrast lie only in their different methods of approach toward the same goal?

God pity our civilization if the time ever comes when religion and business will be divorced, or that the spirit of Jesus Christ shall withdraw itself within the walls of ecclesiastic contemplation and have no part nor lot in the political and economical struggle of mankind.

No such withdrawal from the life work of our age is contemplated by the builders of yonder Seminary. Its cloistered retreat is needed for study, contemplation and prayer as the best preparation for the tug and sweat that awaits every student within its walls.

The Seminary itself is the last word in modern architecture; it combines the noblest designs of both Grecian and Medieval Art; this it does both in exterior form and symmetry, as well as in its internal arrangement and finish. And yet no expense has been spared to provide it with every modern convenience and comfort: its recitation rooms and library, its infirmary and lounging room and sleeping rooms with private baths are of the very latest model. In the center is the beautiful Chapel and Altar walls in gray polished marble spotted with pure white and void of any but the plainest and simplest ornamentation.

The building is set back some 200 feet from the road. The intervening space is being laid out in accordance with the most beautiful conception of the best procurable landscape architects.

Such, in brief, is an etching of the new Franciscan Seminary designed to train young men for the Catholic Priesthood. At present they house seventy-five students and eight Priest instructors.

What does the erection of such a structure of such an enormous cost mean to Andover, to the State and to the World?

Does the idea it incorporates and the goal it aims to reach body forth the inclusive spirit of Jesus Christ who speaks of himself as a "gatherer" or is it to build up an exclusive type of ecclesiasticism whose aim is to dominate the religious, educative, political and economic life of our nation?

Certainly if there go out from its walls young students imbued with the spirit of St. Francis the founder of their order—1182-1226—they cannot exclude themselves from the crying need of mankind; nor claim to be the only channel of divine grace for a needy world. To help his brother men St. Francis gave up all the amenities and ease of his life and "taking a vow of extreme poverty" gave himself up to an imitation of the life of Christ and to the service of the sick and wretched.

No Priest nor Minister that gives himself up to an imitation of Christ can live a cloistered life of prayer and meditation, nor narrow his sympathies to any one class of men; he cannot fail to lay his whole life under contribution to suffering humanity.

Thomas Bentley conducted the first of his fishing trips to Marblehead last Saturday. Chester Harnden caught a cod which weighed thirty-nine pounds and Nathan Shattuck secured three which were of ordinary size. Others present were: Cutler Foster, William Bentley, Joseph Pitman, George Minse, Ralph Manning, Bert Wheeler, William Rea, William Allen, James Gillen, Alexander Wylie, James Ireland and George Fraize.

Memorial night was fittingly observed at the Andover Grange on Tuesday evening. The meeting was well attended by Grangers and there were also sixteen members of William F. Bartlett Post 99, G. A. R., present as specially invited guests. Before the supper, the gathering met in the upper hall and the meeting was called to order by the presiding officer, Frank Foster. Six members of the Grange had passed away within a short time and the purpose of the meeting was to commemorate their death.

Chaplain Flint, spoke feelingly of the late Henry Boyton; Samuel H. Boutwell, of late Joshua Chandler; Selectman S. H. Bailey of Henry Hayward; Edward Boutwell of Mrs. Bailey; and Frank H. Hardy of Clarence Moor. Edward Burt read a paper on Russell Abbott written by George Phelps. Newton's orchestra played several pieces of patriotic music and Miss Marjorie Morrill gave a reading. E. Kendall Jenkins gave a very interesting account of the formation of the local company and Speaker John N. Cole made an address. The supper was followed by patriotic addresses by Comrade Davis of the Reading Post, Joseph A. Smart, Charles Greene and J. Warren Berry. At the conclusion of the speaking, Amos Richardson conveyed the members of the Post and a few others back to the square.

May 21, 1906, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Monte Whitcomb of Elm street.

Andover did her share in sending relief to San Francisco following the calamity of April 18. J. Tyler Kimball, cashier of the Andover National bank was the treasurer appointed to receive the funds. The first week the collection amounted to $1,489.20. Following a meeting of twenty-five prominent citizens held on Monday evening, April 23, a committee of five consisting of Walter S. Donald, John W. Bell, William J. Dunbar, Fred H. Jones and Alfred E. Stearns, was appointed to circulate subscription books. On the following Friday the total was $2,096.01, and the next week the total had reached $2,267.26.

The annual supper and concert given by the "Indian Ridge Mothers' club" at Abbott Village hall, Wednesday evening, was largely attended there being fully two hundred who sat down to a fine supper provided by the ladies. After supper, the company listened to the following program: Piano and violin, Mary Black and Helen McKenzie; vocal solo, Mrs. Daniel Maguire; reading Mrs. Paddock; piano solo, Marion Abbott; highland fling, Mr. Matthews with bagpipe accompaniment by Mr. Ramsay; vocal solo, Mr. Valentine; reading, Marjorie Morrill; selections from gramophone; piano solo, Miss Evelyn Steele.

So far as any institution, whether it be the Catholic Church or the Salvation Army, dedicates its efforts to this end so far is it clothed with divine authority. "Why call Lord, Lord, and do not the things I command you?" If these utterances of Christ mean anything they mean that the work of Christ is more acceptable to Him than the elaborate worship of his person.

There are three ways to treat the Christian ideal:

First, to attempt its realization by withdrawing from the sin of the world into some Monastery or Convent and devoting one's time to prayer and spiritual meditation.

Secondly, to leave this retreat and, at the same time, surrender this ideal as impossible of realization.

Thirdly, to tighten one's grip upon this ideal and carry it forth, as Christ did, into the very thick of life's struggles and temptations.

It is far easier to build costly temples to God and, shutting ourselves within them, spend our time in prayer than it is to interpenetrate this selfish, pleasure-loving world with the spirit of Jesus.

St. Francis was a missionary. He allowed no impediment to stand in the way of a needy soul. His field was world wide.

We, like him, must feel that the crying need of this sin-cursed world of ours is the religion of Jesus Christ, not ecclesiasticism, not creeds, and doctrines, but life and life more abundant.

Every substitute under the sun has been laid hold of to pry humanity out of its slough of despond but all in vain.

Nothing but the federated efforts of every lover of our Lord offers the least hope of ultimate success.

May the time come when every ecclesiastic barrier shall crumble into dust, and the entire church, as a unified phalanx, march resolutely against the enemies of mankind.

Addison Art Gallery

The Addison Gallery of American Art, just opened at Phillips academy, is likely to play a most important part in the success of the institution and the development of art in New England. Its inspiring exhibit of the works of great American artists will serve to draw the public to the Academy campus and thus help to knit more closely the friendly feelings between the Hill and the town. With the opening of the gallery comes an hospitable invitation from the trustees to the public to visit it. Since it is to be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. every week day and on Sundays from 2 to 4:30 o'clock ample opportunity is afforded for all to view the exhibits.

The gallery will give the students of the academy and the people of New England a chance to familiarize themselves with many of the works of the best American artists, not only in oil paintings and water colors, but in silver, pewter, glass, ship models and etchings. The wish expressed by the trustees in their announcement of the opening--"It is hoped that the influence of the Gallery will extend far beyond the boundaries of Phillips academy and play its part in the development of all branches of American art"--undoubtedly will be fulfilled.

Merchants' Day

The marked trade stimulus that resulted from Andover's first Merchants' day on Tuesday was convincing proof that the movement was worth while. There were plenty of genuine bargains offered and the low prices that prevailed, aside from these special opportunities, gave an added incentive to buying to the public responded well. The Lions club has inaugurated something long needed in the business life of Andover--cooperative effort to arouse in the public a realization that it will pay Andover people to patronize Andover stores for many of the goods they have been buying elsewhere.

With the marked success of the first Merchants' day as a foundation the club's mercantile committee can continue to cooperate with the merchants in a way that will be helpful to both storekeepers and the buying public. Once well awakened to the trading possibilities of the town the citizens can be kept awake to it easily by reminding them occasionally through such special bargain days.

Editorial Cinders

The lure of Art that will bring visitors from far and near to Phillips academy to view the exhibits at the Addison Gallery will at the same time bring to greater public notice the beauty and elaborateness of the general development of the institution which, now, stands as one of the finest equipped educational plants in the world.

The greater the success of Poppy day in Andover tomorrow, the more good the American Legion post can do among the disabled, the suffering and the unemployed veterans of Andover. The Legion does not confine its welfare work to members of the post. Any veteran in need of assistance, whether a member of the Legion or not, shares in the benefits made possible by the money raised through the sale of poppies. The Legion did most creditable work through the winter in its welfare department and deserves generous support in its attempt to raise funds to continue its valuable social service.

The recent death of Prof. George Foote Moore of Harvard brings to mind his splendid service at the Andover Theological Seminary before the transfer to Cambridge and recalls the kindness he extended to the students in his classes here, a service that broadened in his wider Harvard field. He stood in the front rank of the world's scholars, yet the nervous or uncertain student was never allowed to realize the gulf that separated his own knowledge from that of his instructor. Instead he received such kindly encouragement that he soon regained his self-confidence and often became one of the brightest members of the class. It has been well said of Prof. Moore that he was a "great scholar, a kindly guide along the paths of learning and a rare personality."

Among the many ridiculous changes recommended by the redistricting committee in its report to the state legislature one of the worst is the shifting of Andover from the Fifth to the Seventh Congressional district and the splitting of the city of Lawrence into two districts. There is little likelihood that the legislature will accept the plan as a whole so there is hope that Andover may yet be allowed to remain in the district in which it has interests in common with associated towns.

And while thinking over this new district proposition the Townsman is still seriously wondering when the state is to be redistricted so that the town of Andover can have a local representative at the state legislature.

It is pleasing news to the many friends of Rev. C. Norman Bartlett, former pastor of the local Baptist church that he is to be the summer minister at the Baptist church of Jackson, N. H., where he has an opportunity to serve the interests of many patrons of the famous White Mountain resort.

Fast approaching another Memorial day, Andover will appropriately observe another Memorial Sunday. Services in memory of the soldier and sailor dead of Andover will be held in local churches Sunday forenoon, on the banks of the Shawheen in the afternoon and in town hall in the evening. There will be a memorial mass at St. Augustine's church and a special service at the Baptist church attended by the local patriotic organizations. The services for the sailor dead will be conducted as usual at Marlard bridge at 3 p. m. by the Ladies auxiliary to Walter L. Raymond camp, 111, Sons of the United Veterans. The climax of the day's observance will come with the special service in the town hall at 8 p. m. Andover is ever loyal to the memory of her war dead and will show her living devotion this year. Thus do the living profit by paying respectful tribute to those who have passed on.

The interest being shown by the residents of North Main street along the new section of highway in developing lawns and flower gardens is most commendable. The new highway has improved the grounds and provided a sidewalk where none existed before. That in itself makes a marked change for the better in the general appearance of the neighborhood, but all the residents are taking such pains to beautify the surroundings that an attractive section is replacing one that was much less so before the street was built. Vines planted by the Andover Village Improvement society will relieve, eventually, the bareness of the large retaining wall on the east side of the street. This street improvement project has made a transformation that is proving to be one of Andover's best assets.

Andover friends of Rev. Daniel J. O'Mahoney, O. S. A., who was for many years pastor of St. Augustine's church in this town, will join in congratulating the venerable clergyman during the observance of the golden anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, which will begin at 10:30 a. m. Sunday when Fr. O'Mahoney will sing a solemn high mass in St. Mary's church, Lawrence, where he is now stationed. A public reception to him will be held in Recreation hall, Lawrence next Monday evening.

The new street signs are both conspicuous and substantial. All who use the streets of Andover will benefit by their installation.

File Report on Redistricting

Under a plan contained in the majority report of the special redistricting committee that was filed with the clerk of the state Senate Friday afternoon, Lawrence will be divided between the sixth and seventh Massachusetts districts now represented by Congressmen A. Platt Andrews and William P. Connery respectively.

Wards one and two of Lawrence will be placed in the sixth district, while wards three, four, five and six will remain in Congressman Connery's seventh district.

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell has been elected to the House of Representatives from the fifth district, the former going into Congressman Connery's district and the latter being transferred to Congressman Andrews' district.

North Andover also gets shifted about, having taken Congressman Connery and given to Congressman Andrews.

Christ Church Notes

The Fellowship will hold a whist party in the parish house Tuesday evening, May 26, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will be used to send delegates to the Concord conference. Next Sunday will be Whistday, with communion services in Christ church at eight o'clock and again at 10:45.

The annual commencement exercises of the Church school will be held Sunday, June 14.

Mother and Daughter Banquet at Free Church

"Are Women First?" an episode in the political history of Prunellville, a musical entertainment with book by Stanley Hickok and music by Robert Nichols, given by the Brotherhood class of the Free church had its first presentation in the vestry last evening. It will be repeated tonight and any one, however satiated with Andover's full winter's program of music and amateur dramatics, will find a unique entertainment full of wholesome fun, and some pleasing music. To hear Harry Kidder sing "The Life I Love the Best" is alone well worth the price of admission.

The country store of Abner Bean, the walls of which advertise a variety of commodities and with wares displayed for sale is the haunt of the checker players, Si and Josh, the shopping mecca and center of gossip for the women, not to mention the scene of political activities, and the polling place. Abner and Sarah, his wife, both decide to run for the office of mayor and the inhabitants of Prunellville are strongly partisan.

The itinerant vendor of Moonbeam curren, a veritable bally-hoo artist, his fiddler and singer with the magic voice are pressed into the campaign service of Sarah while Billy Barton, who seems to be a summer boarder, undertakes the affairs of Abner. In spite of campaign songs, parades, and the hen-pecked Gus who votes for both candidates and stuttering Peter Stubbs, who can't tell his own name, the election results in a tie.

All the parts are taken by men. The costumes, arranged by Mrs. Stanley Hickok are fearful and wonderful. The songs are original, the jokes are funny and so is Elmer, who immediately realizes his hopes of being in a successful show. Robert Nichols himself is at the piano and no one misses the twelve-piece orchestra.

At intermission there is a radio sketch by Daniel Macdonald, whose impersonation of a Scotchman at last year's show, "The Music Box," none of his audience have forgotten.

Thomas Lowe is the violinist.

Rev. George Moore Dies in Cambridge

The Rev. George F. Moore, aged seventy-nine years, professor emeritus of Harvard, who wrote many articles on the Old Testament and oriental languages and literature, died at his home on Divinity avenue, Cambridge, Saturday.

A number of years ago he was visiting professor at the University of Berlin. He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, the American Oriental Society of which he was former president.

Prof. Moore was a native of West Chester, Pa. His father, William Eves Moore, was a clergyman and his mother, Francis Foot Moore, a daughter of a clergyman. He was graduated from Yale in 1872 and studied at the Union Theological Seminary and at Tubingen, Germany. He received the degrees of D.D., LL.D., Litt. D., D.H.L., and D.H. Litt.

He was pastor of the Putnam Presbyterian Church at Zanesville, O., and in 1883 became Hitchcock professor of Hebrew language and literature at the Andover Theological seminary. In 1902 he left to fill the position of professor of the History of Religions at the Harvard University and was professor emeritus at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Appleton chapel Cambridge where services were presided over by Rev. James Hardy Rogers and prayer was offered by Rev. Francis G. Peabody, Prof. Archibald T. Davison, head of the Harvard Music department played the organ.

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University and President Stanley Pease of Amherst college were among the honorary bearers.

He leaves a son, Albert H. Moore of Cambridge.

Wedding

RYAN-BAYLE

Miss Margaret Bayle of 49 Essex street became the bride of Michael Ryan of 9 Arnold street, Methuen, at a ceremony performed in St. Augustine's church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. The couple was married by Rev. Charles A. Branton, O. S. A., pastor.

They were attended by Miss Mary McNulty as bridesmaid and Michael McCartney as best man. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the bride's home after which Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left on an extended trip. They will make their home at 9 Arnold street, Methuen.

Garden Party

A garden party will be held on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Johnson, 47 Central street, on Wednesday, June 3, at two o'clock, for the benefit of the Lawrence General Hospital.

A committee of well-known people from Methuen, North Andover, Lawrence and Andover, all of which communities receive the benefits of the hospital, are planning to make this a most delightful occasion.

The price of admission will hardly exceed the amount that the majority of children pay for chewing gum, so that youngsters, their parents, older friends and grandparents may all attend. Afternoon tea will be served and also a most delicious supper.

There are to be grabs, candy, ice cream, delectable food, household articles, flowers, handkerchiefs and many other articles for sale.

While the children contentedly suck their lollipops and their elders drink tea, they may have the satisfaction of knowing that their small contribution goes to make up the larger sum which the committee hopes to make for this most worthy institution.

One may walk around the beautiful grounds, see the rock and sunken gardens, the pool with its goldfish, providing the cat has not eaten them, and the beautiful flowers and shrubs.

Any one who has been a patient at a hospital comes away appreciating its worth and the sympathy and kindness of the white-linen nurse. These with the quiet atmosphere and good food offset the only trials for the patient who realize that routine is what brings results, and on returning home if it is occasionally necessary to omit the daily bath on account of insufficient hot water or a cold room, one fully expects to die before the day is over.

The committee is hoping that many people who do not belong to the hospital will join, not as patients, but as active and helpful members.

They will have an opportunity to do this at the garden party on June 3.

To Hold Poppy Day Tomorrow

Andover, Post 8, American Legion will conduct its annual Poppy day on Saturday, May 23. The proceeds of this sale are placed in the Post's welfare fund and used entirely to assist needy comrades in distress. The American Legion in this work does not confine its benefits to members only, in fact, seventy-five per cent of the veterans aided are not members of the organization.

This past winter the Post's welfare board spent many dollars for food, fuel, and in certain cases for doctor's bills and clothing. Due to the depression, the calls were many and it is hoped that the people of Andover will again respond generously to the Legion's plea.

The first Holy Communion class will receive Holy Communion for the first time at the 8:45 o'clock mass next Sunday.

This mass will be offered for the deceased members of the parish, who have served in the army, navy and marine corps. All veterans of the parish are invited to attend the mass in a body and receive Holy Communion. They will assemble in the basement of the church before the mass and march upstairs in a body.

The Blessed Virgin Mary sodality will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 8:45 o'clock mass next Sunday.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mildred Earley McGrath, who died May 17th, 1921, aged 18 years, 11 months.
 I can not say, and I will not say
 That she is dead—she is just away!
 With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
 She has wandered into an unknown land
 And left me dreaming how very fair
 It needs must be, since she lingers there,
 And you, and I, who longingly yearn
 For the oldtime step and the glad return—
 Think of her faring on, as dear
 In the love of the love of Here;
 Think of her still as the same, I say;
 She is not dead—she is just away.

Recommends Mr. Philbrooks as a Lecturer
 I note with much interest that Rev. Eugene Philbrooks of Randolph is coming to Andover to be one of his characteristic lectures on May 29.

Having heard Mr. Philbrooks in a series of talks some years ago, I feel that Andover is favored to hear him at such a popular price.

Washington Current Comment

A marine court decides that a man in not to be considered unfit to be master of a vessel simply because he has weathered the storms of three score years and ten. The decision is sensible, and a well-directed blow at industrialists who terminate the usefulness of their servants at an arbitrarily fixed age limit. The facts of the particular case should govern. Cato was wise at 80, and Benedict Arnold foolish in the prime of his years.

The latest achievement in aerial navigation is reported from Berlin. An American, flying to that city from London, arrived a few minutes ahead of the cablegram announcing his departure from the English capital. The telegraph company should have arranged to have him carry the message.

A prominent Englishman, stationed in this country, calls for a closer touch between the common people of the several nations of the world, as the best means for averting war. The suggestion is old, but none the less potent on that account. Everyone hesitates to pick a personal quarrel with a "good neighbor," and it is not seen why the general idea involved could not be extended to larger affairs. Speaking of the common folk and their part in international conflicts, how many countries would have been involved in the so-called World War if the declaration of war had depended upon a referendum vote?

The King of Siam, on a visit to the United States, smiles at the crowds that greet him. He smiles at the things of interest are displayed. He smiles when the doctor tells him that his sight is being clouded by cataract. The Occident has carried much to the Orient, but has failed to bring back, as part payment, the equanimity of the East.

A list of names of approximately 200 students, selected on account of high scholastic attainments, contains about 50 that point unmistakably to foreign birth or origin extraneous. The proportion is large enough to attract notice. It shows that the advantages of the country are open to all, as they should be. No one would deny to the foreign-born, whatever the source of his wealth, has closed to the knock of Opportunity, the ears of pupils whose ancestors have an ancient heritage in the land.

P. A. Athletics

Phillips academy handed the powerful Dartmouth Freshmen his first defeat of the season at Brothers field Saturday afternoon, the final score being 6-5 in favor of the Blue.

Andover went out front in the seventh inning on a single by Darling, a triple by Howard, and another single by Meighan. In the ninth inning the fireworks began. With two out for Dartmouth, and two strikes on Spain, the former Andover star hoisted a high fly which O'Neil missed. Spain then doubled, and scored on a wild pitch. In Andover half of the ninth, O'Neil was passed, and stole second. The throw from Bennett was high and went over Spain's head rolling into center field. Darling continued on to third, and scored when Edwards made a wild peg to the hot corner.

He was a keen golfer. What worried him, however, was that he found himself dropping into strong language when things went badly with him.

A friend suggested that, in order to check the habit, he should pick up a stone and pocket it every time he let slip a bad word.

Returning to the clubhouse after his next game he met his friend who said: "Well, Jack, I see you're reforming. Your pockets are not very heavy."

"No," said the golfer gloomily, "but wait till you see the wheelbarrow the caddy's got!"—LONDON TIT-BITS

BABSON SAYS CHANGED ATTITUDE TOWARD

WORK IS FUNDAMENTAL CAUSE FOR OPTIMISM

Business Is Affected by Change Motives and Actions of People — New Spirit of Service Is Born from Hardships People Have Endured — Best Cure for Business Troubles Is to Work Harder

Babson Park, Massachusetts, May 22, 1931. I take no stock in the theory that depression is psychological and can be cured by optimistic talk. If that were so then the depression must have been caused by pessimistic talk, which everyone knows is not true. Even after business had started downward in 1929 the wildest sort of bullish talk was going the rounds. Today, after two years of depression, everybody is pessimistic just when conditions are beginning to improve. We always find the public most optimistic just after underlying business conditions have turned downward, and most bearish just after underlying conditions have started upward. This was true in the depressions of 1896, 1907, 1914, 1921, 1924, and it is true today.

Talking optimism or pessimism never did cause either prosperity or depression. Business is not affected by talk but it is greatly affected by changed motives and actions of people. It isn't what people say about business, but what they do about it, that counts. The basic reason why I am optimistic on business now is that a new spirit of service is being born from the hardships people have endured. For the first time since 1921 we are really getting down to work. Instead of playing golf from Friday noon to Tuesday morning as they did in 1929, executives are now on the job six days a week trying to boost sales, cut costs and heighten efficiency. Instead of watching the clock and fighting about wages, employees are now turning in a full day's work, and a little more, for a day's pay.

Improvement Already Under Way

Regardless of what the stock market does, general business has seen its worst and is already gradually improving. Nearly all the statistics, such as car loadings, employment, iron and steel production, automobile output, building contracts, machinery orders, exports, textile operations, are substantially higher than they were at the beginning of the year. In some lines the normal seasonal gain has been more pronounced than usual, and in others less pronounced. It is highly probable that, owing to the depression, the seasonal improvement in many lines will be shifted forward, and that summer business will experience much of the quickening in trade that we usually get in March, April, and May.

Outstanding improvement compared with last year is shown in the cotton textiles, woollen goods, shoes, engineering, construction and certain other basic lines. Cotton mills of the country in March operated at ninety-one per cent of capacity, compared with eighty per cent in January. Cotton activity was within 1 per cent as large as in the same month last year. Exports of raw cotton reached March, 1930 by twenty-seven per cent. Wool consumption increased 9 per cent above last year. Shoe production of 29,154,000 pairs in March was a gain of 2 per cent over March a year ago, and a gain of twenty-one per cent over February. Other basic business barometers showing gains were: Lumber, coal, hog and sheep slaughter, cattle receipts, and credit collections in wholesale and retail trade. These are a few of the signs of improvement which surely do not justify the prevailing black pessimism which seems to have settled over the country.

Total Payrolls—Not Wage Scales—Count
There are three important ways whereby labor costs can be reduced. The first is by lower wages. Under President Hoover's urging, wages have been kept up longer than in any previous depression period. One cannot blame labor for wishing to maintain the high wage scales for which it has battled so long. Also, everyone agrees that public purchasing power should be maintained at the highest level possible. However, it is the total payrolls which determine purchasing power—not the individual wage scale. If more men can be employed at somewhat lower wage rates, then the total buying power will be helped rather than reduced. It seems inevitable that with low commodity prices, low interest rates, and lower cost of living, wages will undergo some readjustment. This may indeed be a good thing rather than bad for labor, employment, and buying power. It may already have been a factor in increasing total payrolls ten per cent compared with the first of the year.

An alternative to wage reductions in reducing labor costs is to give more work for the same money. This, I believe, is now occurring throughout business, and it is the most optimistic feature in the present situation. In the old days our grandfathers found it hard to cure business troubles was to work harder, and they acted on that principle. In the place of big factories they had little shops in which perhaps six or a dozen men were employed. When times were hard and prices had to be reduced they simply worked longer hours and put out more goods without increasing costs. This brought prices down to a point where people could buy, kept their own people employed, and prevented business conditions in the locality from becoming severely depressed. There was no talk of shutting down shops because business was poor. That was the time they worked hardest! A third factor in cost reduction is labor-saving machinery. Present low commodity prices are spurring research and engineering laboratories to develop further cost reducing machinery.

Reasons for Encouragement

All facts cannot be measured by figures, but they are none the less, facts. The statistics, as we have seen, show gradual improvement. Another set of facts should also be considered. For twenty-four months people have been wearing out their old clothes, patching up old auto tires, half-selling their old shoes, making last year's overcoat serve again, postponing purchase of a new hat, and generally going without things that they ordinarily would buy. This can continue only so long, and then people have to re-stock. Supplies of goods on merchants' shelves are running low. Renewals are becoming necessary. As people buy, merchants begin to order, factory wheels turn faster, employment increases and pay envelopes fatten. This is the step in the business cycle for which we have been waiting, and which will soon be upon us.

It is up to manufacturers, wage workers, bankers, merchants, salesmen and all others to see that they give the biggest value possible for the dollar received. People will buy now only when they are sure they are getting their full money's worth and a little more. The way to give it to them and keep business on the upgrade is for everyone to do a little more work than he has to do. A little extra work does not hurt. Companies in which the employees are willing to pitch in and fight, instead of taking whatever business conditions come along, will have little trouble in coming out of this depression as splendidly as they have out of the depression of 1929.

Business by the Babsonchart now registers 28 per cent below normal compared with 10 per cent below normal at this time a year ago.

TOMATO OMELET

To make a fluffy omelet for a family of five use from 4 to 6 eggs. For a four-egg omelet, beat the yolks thoroughly and add 4 tablespoons of milk. If preferred, the milk may be heated; it will then cook the yolks slightly when it is added and will give the mixture a smoother consistency. Or, one-half cup of hot white sauce of medium thickness added to the four yolks will make a larger omelet with more body. Fold the yolk mixture gradually and carefully into the stiffly beaten whites containing one-fourth teaspoon salt. Have ready and hot a smooth heavy omelet pan containing 1 tablespoon melted butter, and pour the egg mixture into the pan. The omelet may be cooked in three different ways, but in any case start it on top of the stove at moderate heat. If a small sized gas or oil burner is used, move the pan about so that the omelet will cook around the edge at the same rate as in the center. As soon as the omelet has browned slightly on the bottom, place it in a moderate oven (350° F.) and bake for 10 minutes. Or, continue the cooking on top of the stove until the mixture sets, and then place under a low broiler flame for 2 or 3 minutes. Or, if preferred, cover the pan during the whole period and so cook the top of the omelet as well as the bottom. The omelet is done, create it through the center, fold it over with a spatula, and roll it onto a hot platter without attempting to lift it from the pan. Pour over the omelet the hot tomato sauce, and serve at once.

TOMATO SAUCE
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 slices onion
1 teaspoon sugar
1 bay leaf
Simmer the tomato, onion, sugar, and spices for 10 minutes. Strain through a fine sieve, and measure the liquid. For each cup of liquid blend 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons melted fat, add to the tomato juice with salt and pepper to season, and stir until thickened. Continue to cook over hot water for 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot with croquettes or meat loaf.

GINGERBREAD
1-3 cup fat
1-2 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
1 egg
3 cups sifted soft-wheat flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 whole cloves
2 whole allspice
1 cup milk
Cream together the sugar and fat. Add the molasses and beaten egg. Sift together twice the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in two shallow pans in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with cream cheese or whipped cream.

One cup of sour milk may be used instead of the sweet milk. In that case, use 1 scant teaspoon of soda in place of the 1-2 teaspoon called for in the recipe and use only 2 teaspoons of baking powder.

Be sure to measure the ultimate cost of all canning operations before launching a big program of preserving foods at home. This is the timely warning issued to the homemakers of the country by the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For economic reasons the question of home canning is likely to be more important this season in more homes than it has been since the days of the war, according to Dr. Florence B. King, chief of the food utilization division of the bureau. Canning should be a means of preserving surplus foods, she says, and not as an end in itself. Unless all costs are considered carefully, canning may defeat its economic purpose.

"There is no virtue in depriving the family of its supply of fresh vegetables in order to have some for canning," Doctor King points out. "If a definite canning program is planned, the home garden should be planted to provide the surplus and still leave plenty of vegetables and fruits for daily use while they are fresh. If it will be necessary to buy fruits and vegetables for canning, the cost should be compared with fresh products out of season or with commercially canned goods. Produce is likely to have the best flavor and be the cheapest when it is most abundant, which is the logical time for canning."

"The reason for canning foods immediately after gathering is much more than an esthetic one. The preservation of the vitamin content and the control of the bacteria, yeasts, and molds, which cause spoilage, depend largely on freshness. One hour from the garden can be a wise slogan. The produce must be thoroughly washed, and those which grow close to the ground, like spinach, must receive special attention, because the organisms found in soil are some of the most difficult types to kill. Yeasts and molds are easier to kill than bacteria, many types of which go through a spore phase in their life cycle which makes them harder to destroy."

"No growing and vegetative forms of bacteria are able to survive the temperature of boiling water for any appreciable length of time. Many spore forms, on the other hand, are killed at boiling temperature only after long continued heating. This means that the degree of heat and the length of time that heat is applied should always be regulated to insure a sterile product. The temperature and time schedule vary with the fruit or vegetable, depending on the acidity and the viscosity of the juices. After destroying the microorganisms the food must be protected against the entrance of others by sealing air-tight."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture distributes a publication, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home," which takes up in detail the several methods used in canning and the length of time necessary to process the various fruits and vegetables. The bureau says that it is not safe to can non-acid fruits and vegetables and meat except under pressure.

Strawberries, rhubarb, asparagus, spinach, and other greens are the fruits and vegetables which are either in season or just coming in now, depending on the locality. The season for rhubarb is comparatively brief. Its refreshing tartness has an established association along with the foods that are considered natural spring tonics. If there is a surplus of rhubarb in the home garden or if the market price is reasonable, the bureau suggests canning rhubarb. It is an excellent addition to the diet in all seasons and contrary to the opinion of some food faddists, the digestive system handles it well along with other foods, whether protein, carbohydrate or fat.

A family of three including father, mother, and two-year child should buy every week:

There are reasons for many things, not apparently to the casual glance. There can even be a reason for a watch chain without a watch.

One fellow was asking the time the other night.

"What's the matter with your watch?" said the man he asked, pointing to the chain looped across his vest front.

Watch?" the time-seeker replied, "I have no watch. I just wear that chain to ward off the birds who ask me for a quarter to get a meal. I drag the chain out, with nothing on it and say,

"See Buddy, there used to be a watch on that. I had to pawn it. I'm as hard up as you are."

"It's a good gag. It works."

The Hand and the Needle

THE difference in the cost of clothing is determined largely by the value of the hand that guides the needle. A master tailor demands a master's wage and the human hand is costlier than a machine. Those who demand the craftsmanship of the human hand are willing to pay the additional cost.

Whether the needle is guided by a master's hand or a machine there can be no finer fabric selected than Ram's Head guaranteed cloth.

George Washington was Interested in Orphans

Perhaps no one ever felt more keenly than George Washington the need for relief measures designed to ameliorate the distressing circumstances of orphans and children of parents who were too poor to provide for their families. He was always especially interested in the creation of educational facilities for this class of people, and his life furnishes many examples of worthy efforts in this field.

The Division of Information and Publication of the United States Bicentennial Commission, now completing plans for the celebration next year of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington, which will begin on February 22 and end the following Thanksgiving Day, cites three instances of the First President's interest in and sympathy for orphans. His beneficence is nowhere better displayed than in this respect.

Perhaps the most notable of George Washington's contributions to orphans and children of the poor was his endowment of the Alexandria Academy. This school was founded in his home town by himself and other public spirited men who wished to give unfortunate children the opportunity of obtaining an education. Washington laid the cornerstone of the Academy in September, 1785. The building still stands and is used by the public school system of Alexandria.

Washington established a fund for the school, the interest only of which was to be used. His will provided for the permanent endowment of the institution in the bequest of twenty shares of stock in the Bank of Alexandria, then worth four thousand dollars. At one time Washington maintained in the school, in addition to the regular pupils, about twenty boys who had been killed in the Revolutionary War.

In his diary for December 17, 1785, Washington wrote:

"Went to Alexandria to meet the Trustees of the Academy at that place, and offered to vest in the hands of the said Trustees, when they are permanently established by Charter, the Sum of One Thousand pounds, the Interest of which only, to be applied towards the establishment of a charity school for the education of Orphan and other poor Children, which offer was accepted."

During the first year of his initial term in the Presidency, Washington, then in New York City, wrote in his diary, November 22, 1789: "Went to St. Paul's Chapel in the forenoon—heard a charity sermon for the benefit of the Orphan's School of this city."

Again, during his tour of the Southern States in the spring of 1791, he recorded a visit to the orphanage at Charleston, South Carolina.

"Before Break (fast)," Washington wrote, "I visited the Orphan House at which there were one hundred and seven boys and girls. This appears to be a charitable institution and under good management."

Never in his life did Washington turn a deaf ear toward the pleas which came from or in behalf of the orphans. He always responded to such requests for help with whatever assistance he could render. His benevolence no less than his spectacular achievements on the field of battle or in the chair of Government mark him as one of the world's truly great.

Punchard 11 Johnson 1

Punchard high defeated Johnson high for the second time this season Monday afternoon at the Andover playstead, 11 to 1. Capt. Tommy Low twirled for the victors, and although lacking control at the outset, soon warmed up to his task and held the Red and Black to three scattered hits.

Willbur Lyons was on the mound for Johnson, and while he pitched effective ball, received poor support from his teammates, accounting in large measure for Punchard's heavy score.

Punchard took the lead in the last of the first inning, sending over four runs on three hits, one a triple, and a combination of four errors.

In the fourth two more runs were tallied on a single and two errors, and in the seventh, Punchard nicked Lyons for five singles, which coupled with an hit batsman by Lyons, added five more.

Johnson failed to score in the first inning. With one out, Dziadosz walked. Bastian popped out to Bissett at short. Ryley also walked but Kelly fanned. In the latter half Gouck walked. McTernan flied out to McDuffie in left. Davidson singled to short and went to second on Dziadosz's poor throw to first. Gouck scoring. Low grounded out to short. O'Donnell struck out, but reached first when Bastian dropped the third strike.

Pearson tripped to left and scored on McDuffie's fumble on the relay in, clearing the base. Asonian walked. Bissett singled to left. O'Connor grounded out to Slicer.

With two out in the second, McGuirk doubled into right but died at second as Lyons grounded out to Low. In the latter half Punchard had two out, when Davidson beat out a grounder to second, and stole second, where he died as Low popped out to Lyons.

Johnson scored its only run in the third inning Slicer drawing a pass. He was forced at second on a grounder by Dziadosz. O'Connor, Dziadosz stole second as Bastian fanned. Ryley singled to left, to score Dziadosz, while Kelly popped out to O'Connor. Punchard went out in its half.

In the fourth, with two down, Davidson and Gouck both dropped flies in order, but further damage was averted when Slicer grounded out to Low. In the latter half, with two out, Kelly dropped a throw from Lyons on a grounder by Gouck. The latter stole second and scored on a single by McTernan. Curley missed a fly by Davidson, allowing McTernan to score. Low flied out to Ryley to center.

In the fifth both sides went out in order, while Johnson repeated the process in the sixth. Dziadosz fumbled Gouck's grounder but McTernan went out, Slicer to Kelly.

In the seventh with one out, McGuirk reached for Johnson when Low dropped his pop fly, but the next two went out in order. Lyons hit Davidson, while Low, O'Donnell and Slicer fanned in order. Asonian fanned. Bissett singled, and O'Connor grounded out to Lyons. Simpson, batting for Gouck, singled, while McTernan flied out to McDuffie in left. Punchard adding five runs.

Johnson failed to become dangerous in the final frames, while numerous substitutions were made in the Punchard lineup in the closing innings.

Punchard 8—Danvers 3

Punchard high won its sixth victory in as many starts Wednesday afternoon, defeating Danvers high, 8 to 3, at the Andover playstead. Punchard clinched the contest in the opening inning, scoring six runs over the team coached by Lester C. Ayer, former assistant coach at Woodbury high.

Albert Swenson twirled the larger part of the contest for the local team, pitching the first six innings, while Captain Tommy Low finished the contest. Gardner Trask opened in the box for the visitors, but did not last the first inning, passing three and being touched for two hits, one a double, scoring four runs with only one out. He was replaced by Henry Wallace as the seventh Punchard batsman came up.

Wallace did not fare so well in the opening inning, being touched for one single. He then made a poor throw to first on Asonian's grounder. Swenson was retired, as Bissett scored the sixth run of the inning. He passed the next two, and finally secured the third out on Davidson's grounder to the box.

Punchard scored again in the second inning, when Low opened with a double, went to third on O'Donnell's grounder to short, and scored on the throw-in on Pearson's fly to Trask in center field.

Punchard added its eighth and final run in the last of the seventh, when Asonian opened with a single to center, stole second, went to third on a passed ball by Alexander Grabowski, and scored on Swenson's hit to right, with none out.

Danvers tallied in the first inning, Grabowski starting off with a single through second, and going to third on Dacey's sacrifice bunt to third. He scored, when one out, Drummond Bissett made a wild throw to first on Barnes' grounder to short.

It was Grabowski who again scored for Danvers, when in the third inning he opened with a single through second, went to second on a poor throw by Swenson in an attempt to cut him off at first, and scored on Captain Melvin King's single through short.

Jankowski added the third and last run for the visitors in the fifth inning, beating out a grounder to third, advancing to second Bissett's fumble of Grabowski's grounder, to third as Grabowski was forced at second on Dacey's grounder to Bissett, and scoring on King's hard hit grounder to third, which Low knocked down but could not field quick enough to make the play at first.

Low, in the three innings in which he worked, fanned five of the 10 batsmen to face him, the first three in succession, and allowed but one hit.

Punchard's next game is scheduled for Saturday, the team journeying to Exeter, N. H., to meet Exeter high in the annual clash between the two schools.

P. A. ATHLETICS

Phillips academy hit opportunely against the Andover Freshmen in a thrilling field Wednesday to score a 6 to 1 victory. Although they made but six hits as against eight for the invaders, the Blue hit when they meant runs.

Willard Cates, son of Jack Cates, director of athletics at Yale university, turned back the Crimson hero. He allowed eight hits but kept the Freshmen scattered and in the pinches twirled very good ball. Two of the hits came in the final inning when the visitors tallied their only run of the game.

Harvard was unable to hit his ball far, as most of their bingles were infield ones. Cates struck out five and issued as many passes. At bat he collected a double which scored Andover's second run and crossed the plate himself for the third run on Howard's double in the second inning.

Woodcock opened for Andover with a free ticket to first and stole second. Darling fouled to Hines. Howard walked and Meighan was hit, filling the sacks.

Asonian was thrown out at second. Smith to N. Ware, on a fielder's choice of Foreman's hit. Woodcock tallied on the play. Foreman stole second. Kettle ended with a long fly to Lupien.

Andover tallied twice in the second inning when with one out as a result of Raynor's fly to Lupien, O'Neil reached second on an error and wild throw by N. Ware. Cates doubled down the right field foul line scoring O'Neil. Woodcock grounded out, Beale to Murphy. Darling walked. Howard then doubled scoring Cates while Darling held up at third. Meighan ended by being called out on strikes.

Howard's second run came in the second inning seventh when the Blue sent three runners over the home plate. Woodcock again opened this time with a long fly to Lee in left field. Darling walked and stole second. Howard hit a foul fly to Hines who made a good catch.

Howard reached on Smith's error and bad throw to first while Darling scored the plate. Foreman hit safely into left field scoring Meighan, as Foreman made third on the play. The latter scored on a wild pitch. Kettle was run down between third and home, DeGive to Hines to Beale.

Harvard's only run came in the ninth inning. Lee opened with a short lift which Howard covered for the first out. N. Ware singled to left and reached second on a passed ball. Lupien went out, Meighan to Foreman as N. Ware went to third. Smith then singled to center scoring N. Ware. Gleason was thrown out, Meighan to Foreman.

Guy Hayes, an Andover boy, and Frank Crane, both former Andover academy athletes, were with the freshmen squad but did not get into the game. The Crimson yearlings were in charge of Claude Davidson, former president of the New England league. The score:

Cancer Less Fatal to Physicians than to the General Public

According to a statement issued by the United States Public Health Service, physicians are less likely to succumb to cancer than are other people making up the general public.

"In this country, cancer is recorded as the second hazard to life—whereas it is fifth in the list of causes of death of physicians. For the public at large, cancer is exceeded only by heart disease, cerebral hemorrhage, pneumonia and chronic nephritis."

"What is the explanation for the 'less liability' of physicians to die from cancer? It is not because physicians are less likely to develop this dread disease, for cancer is no respecter of persons. The explanation lies in the fact that doctor's recognize cancer developing in themselves in a comparatively short time after it appears. These signs that may herald cancer can be readily learned by everybody and everybody should know them and be alert for them, so that early, efficient treatment may be instituted."

The higher mortality of the general public is due to apathy and lack of sore signs that herald cancer. Many people delay months and even a year after noting that something is the matter before seeking medical aid. This delay is the greatest obstacle to the control of cancer.

To cure cancer in its beginning, the person having any one of the early significant signs must know them. Hardly they are a sore that does not heal, a wart or mole that changes in appearance a lump that does not disappear; chronic indigestion with loss of weight, or any irregular bleeding from any part of the body.

Anyone over thirty-five should be alert for these signs since anyone may have cancer. On discovery of any one of them it should be called to the attention of the family physician the very day it is noted. You may find you have not cancer at all. On the other hand, you may have saved your life by being cautious and alert to the early warning signs of the disease.

If there is no physician in whom you have perfect confidence there are State-aided Cancer Clinics at your disposal where you may be assured of the best in diagnosis and advice obtainable.

Fear is sometimes the reason for delay in cancer.

Many people suffer from the fear of action. Yielding to this we suffer first from the thought of it and later from the issue itself when it is too late.

The fear that leads to action is to be commended because that one faces the issue and takes steps to conquer the thing he fears. The best time to check any decline in health is at the beginning. This is especially true of cancer. Many people are alive today because they are quick in seeking medical aid. On the other hand, many needless deaths have occurred because of delay.

The "Whats and Whys of Cancer" will be sent to anyone on application to the State Department of Public Health, State House, Boston.

Europe Drives Out Billboards

While Europe drives the billboards from her hills and highways, America still wallows in the ruck of ugliness and the defacement of the natural landscape. By rigorous law in Italy, Germany, Austria and elsewhere, Europe is cleaning up the countryside and the pest of signs and billboards is almost exterminated in a land that from the beginning never suffered as America has suffered in this field. Europe is cleaning up the highways in part to attract American tourists. America's highways, lined with bills and posters, drive the tourist abroad.

When America figures the cost in defacement, in traffic dangers and in general barbarism that billboards and unsightly shacks and vendors' places impose on the country, action will be taken to drive them from the roads. The highways are costly properties. They are the nation's nearest parks and areas for recreation. To lower their value and deface them
